Why E-Learning?

Our experienced teachers have a passion for teaching First Nation students and facilitate the teaching via online synchronous classes. Local mentors will help students with technical issues and encourage student participation for ultimate success.

Our E-Learning model is different from conventional distance learning programs because it allows direct interaction between students and teachers on a regular basis.

If you are ready to complete your High School studies, then contact us for more information to get you on the path to success.

In a world where education and training are the key to meaningful employment, E-Learning is an innovative tool for Aboriginal communities to improve the rate of success for their people.
